

Carefully check all spelling & punctuation

Annotated Bibliography

Primary Sources

Citation

Lange, Dorothea. San Francisco, Calif., Apr. 1942 - Evacuees of Japanese Descent being Inoculated as they Registered for Evacuation, and Assignment, Later, to War Relocation Authority Centers for the Duration of the War. Photograph. April 1942. Library of Congress. <http://www.loc.gov/pictures/item/2002719511/>.

Indent everything after 1st line.

1. What type of reference is it?

The photograph showed people of Japanese descent standing in line and receiving shots. This helped support my understanding of what the Japanese people had to endure before being relocated to authority centers during the war.

“Magna Carta.” Avalon Project, Yale Law School. Last modified 2008. Accessed January 3, 2013. <http://avalon.law.yale.edu/medieval/magframe.asp>

This translation of the Magna Carta helped me understand what the charter included. It provided details of all 63 clauses that were originally included in the signed charter.

Annotation (check note cards in Noodle Tools)

Secondary Sources

Label and separate primary and secondary sources in BOLD lettering

Kershaw, Alex. The Bedford Boys: One American Town’s Ultimate D-Day Sacrifice. Cambridge: Da Capo Press, 2003.

Alphabetical order

In this book, an in-depth account of nineteen boys from Virginia that died in the first minutes of D-Day in 1944 is collected from interviews with survivors and families. I used a quote from one of the D-Day survivor’s interview.

2. How did you use the source?

“Otto von Bismarck.” In The New Encyclopedia Britannica. 2012 ed.

This article provided an account of Bismarck’s early life and career in Prussia. This helped me gain an understanding of what events led up to his position as prime minister of Prussia

3. How did the source help you understand your topic?